WILL CONSIDER CITY MANAGER

MEETING OF COMMERCIAL CLUB MEMBERS TOMORROW EVENING.

SPECIAL COMMITTEE WILL MAKE REPORT

Subject Will Be Discussed for New Plan—Clarinda Finds It a Success, Committee Reports.

A meeting of the members of the Commercial Club has been called for tomorrow evening at 6:30 o'clock at the Elks club and the subject of the commission form of government and city manager plan will be considered. A banquet will be held in connection with the meeting.

A large attendance is desired as the subject has created great interest among the citizens of Maryville.

The committee appointed by the directors of the Commercial club to investigate the merits of that form of government and also of the city manager plan will make its report. This committee is composed of Fred Hull, E. C. Curfman and J. S. Shinabargar. The committee recommended to the board of directors the adoption of commission form with a view to city manager plan at a meeting held last evening and the report was adopted by the directors.

Messrs. Curfman and Hull returned last night from a visit to Clarinda full of enthusiasm for the new system and confident that the plan will prove an unqualified success for Maryville.

Mr. Hull in an interview with a representative of the Democrat-Forum had the following to say about the success of a city manager at Clarinda:

"The story of how Clarinda came to take on the new plan of town government has a beginning that is very similar to that of most towns of the country. The town had been going along under the old aldermanic plan with the usual result—inefficiency in the matter of results and the revenues of the city always exhausted before the time for the next distribution.

"Five years ago a city administration was chosen with the idea that its principal occupation would be to do nothing for the two years and allow the revenues to go to the paying off of old claims. When the time came for the next election the treasury showed a balance of $7,000, but there were no volunteers to take up the burden of city government.

"For a time it looked like the city was going to have to get along without "city dads." Business men felt it would be hopeless to attempt to put the city on a business plan. But some of the leading citizens had been hearing about the city manager innovation that was then coming to attention and they evolved the idea of employing a manager for Clarinda.

"The town manager plan was taken up and discussed at the meeting of the Clarinda Commercial Club, it was given the approval of the members and good men were induced to take places as mayor and city councilmen. They were to be relieved of the details of government and their meetings were to be to advise with the town manager and to legalize by ordinance and aldermanic resolution the policies the manager wished to put over.

"It has been three years since Clarinda started with the town manager. Today Clarinda is not only exuberantly satisfied with its plan of government and wouldn't think of going back to the old system, but the town is responding to the good treatment it has received and it is "blossoming as a rose."

"When the town manager started his work, he was without legal standing, but this difficulty was done away with last year when a bill was formulated and presented to the state legislature embodying the good points that had been worked out at Clarinda. During the last few months four other Iowa towns have taken up the "Clarinda Plan" and others are preparing to make the change this spring.

"To illustrate what is happening at Clarinda under the new form of government, 85,000 square yards of street paving were laid last year, 20 blocks of boulevard lighting were installed and a storm sewer costing $4,100 was constructed, the streets were graded and the roads leading into the city were put in first class condition—all without an increase in the tax levy that had been in effect for many years."

COURT WILL PAY MATRON

AGREE TO $25 A MONTH SALARY FOR ONE YEAR'S TIME.

City Federation Will Have Supervision of Rest Rooms and Will Hire the Matron.

The county court in session this morning agreed to pay the salary of a matron for the rect rooms in the court house for one year at $25 a month. Mrs. G. H. Colbert, president of the City Federation of Women's Clubs, and Mrs. E. G. Orear, chairman of the executive committee, appeared before the court in behalf of the rest rooms. The federation consented to maintain general supervision of the rooms, keeping up repairs, visiting them regularly and hiring the matron.

This action on the part of the court lifts a great burden from the shoulders of the federation members, and from now on any funds the organization may have on hand will be used for civic improvements.

IS SUING FOR DIVORCE AGAIN

Iva C. Coulter Dismissed Her First Case at the January Term of Circuit Court.

Mrs. Iva C. Coulter is suing her husband for divorce, and her petition was filed in Circuit Clerk Westfall's office today for the April term of circuit court. Mrs. Coulter filed a suit for divorce in October for the January term of circuit court, but it was dismissed by her during that term of court. The second suit filed today alleges indignities, and is asking that her maiden name of Gates be restored. The petition states that they were married on July 10, 1915, and lived together until February 2, 1916, and that defendant has failed to support her. Cook, Cummins & Dawson are the attorneys for the plaintiff.

ENGINEER REPORTS

OF BRIDGE WORK DONE IN THE COUNTY PAST YEAR.

$75,000 FLOOD DAMAGE

General Condition of Roads is the Worst in Years—Report Submitted to the County Court.

The report of County Highway Engineer J. E. Reese for the past year was presented to the county court this morning. The report is as follows:

To the Honorable County Court:

I submit the following report for the year 1915:

The destruction of and damage to bridges by floods during the year just past surpasses anything in the history of the county, and a report from this office is one almost entirely of replacement and repairs. From the main streams of the county there was swept by the floods 26 steel spans, in length from 40 feet to 100 feet; 32 wooden structures were taken from the same streams, varying from 60 to 120 feet, while from the smaller streams were taken about 150 bridges and culverts, entailing a loss of about $75,000. There have been 19 of the steel spans replaced, at a cost of $5,245.00. The high cost of replacing the steel spans is accounted for by the fact that in most cases the entire floor system was carried away, which required new material in rebuilding.

Of the wood structures 62 have been replaced or new ones built in their stead.

Very little new work was possible during the past year. Eleven new concrete culverts were built at a cost of $3,629.30.

Five new steel bridges, two having concrete backing, were built at a cost of $3,860.00.

The court and engineer acknowledge and are under obligation to the people of the county for the generous help given and large amount of work donated in repairing the damage done by floods. It enabled us to open many roads and give outlets to communities much sooner than would have been possible without it.

The county court, much against their will, was compelled to resort to the building of wooden bridges, 18 of which were built. The condition of the bridge fund positively prohibited the erection of more substantial structures. Whole communities being left without outlets, it was the only thing possible under the circumstances, and to some extent the same policy must be continued unless some way is provided to secure sufficient means to erect permanent structures. When we consider the fact that we have in this county 1,500 miles of public roads, and that there are from 7,500 to 8,000 places where some kind of opening varying in size from 12 inches to 260 feet must be provided for water to cross the road, some idea of the amount of money necessary to construct and maintain these openings may be arrived at. All these are not what is known as "county bridges"—that is, costing $100 or more.

The entire revenue in the hands of the county court for road and bridge purposes amounts in round numbers to $25,000 per year. The voting of bonds by several townships has done much to improve conditions, and the good effect of such bonds are seen on the roads of these townships.

The general condition of the roads is the worst in years. By this I do not mean that roads are impassable, but the flood of water that poured out of fields, bringing soil that has filled all the ditches, and the continued rain during the summer kept the ground in such condition that grading to any extent was impossible, consequently the side ditches are still filled and roads have no drainage. The good effect of the road drag wherever used was demonstrated this season. Roads regularly dragged suffered little from flood.

The highway commissioner paid $1,321.06 for dragging what is known as county seat roads during 1915.

Respectfully submitted.

J. E. REESE,
Highway Engineer.

Will Fox of Burlington Junction, and G. L. Aikens of Pickering, are spending the day here.

WILL GIVE PROGRAM

WARD SCHOOLS AND THE GRADES OF CENTRAL SCHOOL.

ONE FRIDAY AFTERNOON

By Grades of Central School While Ward School Entertainment is for Next Tuesday Evening.

The Jefferson, Franklin and Garfield ward schools are planning an entertainment which will be given in the high school auditorium Tuesday evening, February 22. The proceeds will be used to pay for some supplies which were purchased last fall.

The grades of the Central school are also planning an entertainment for Friday afternoon, February 18, to which there will be no admittance charge, but an offering will be taken. The proceeds of this entertainment will be placed in the victrola fund.

The program for Friday afternoon includes folk games, recitations and music, as follows: Song, "Santa Lucia," sixth grade; recitations by Betty Harris and Lucile Gaugh; piano solo, Leila Tibbetts; recitation, Elwin Broyles; song by fifth grade boys; violin solo, Russell Allen; a Swedish Crap Game and Pop Goes the Weasel, by the seventh and eighth grades; dialogue by Donald Bellows, Marie Chandler and Olive Ewing; vocal solo, Edna Ward; piano solo, Helen Curfman; recitation, Robert Arnett; song by sixth grade girls; recitation, Nancy Pendergrass; music by Miss Alma Nash's orchestra.

The program for Tuesday is as follows: The pupils of the Jefferson school will give a play entitled "The First Flag," and also three recitations.

The Franklin school pupils' play is "Rhymes and Plays for Happy Days," a swing song by the entire school, a brownie dance, and descriptive song, "Our Dollies," and the lullaby "Sweet and Low."

The Garfield school has arranged a unique play which will be given by the entire school, which is entitled "Little Folk Land." The songs, recitations and monologues have been worked out in the language classes.

WOULD SUE THE CITY

TO PAY BACK ROAD TAX MONEY FOR PAST YEARS.

One Member of Township Board in Favor of Bringing Action—Board to Buy a Grader.

The township board in session this afternoon discussed bringing some action against the city for collecting back road tax money which the city has received up to this year. At least one member of the board, John Dowden, was strongly in favor of bringing such proceedings.

Maryville has been receiving about $5,000 a year from the township tax of 25 cents on the $100 valuation levied for road and bridge purposes. A recent supreme court decision declared the law unconstitutional, because it is in conflict with a constitutional provision, and the township board this year received that money. The city council has discussed the matter of bringing mandamus to show cause why that part of the money is not turned over, but the members of the council are now disposed to let the matter drop.

The township board is also figuring on buying a grader. Representatives of three graders were in conference with the board this afternoon.

Mrs. Hugh O'Donnell and M. J. Vickery of Arkoe were business visitors here yesterday.

FIVE OUT FOR JANITOR

AND THREE APPLICANTS FILED FOR COUNTY PHYSICIAN.

John Clary is an Applicant for County Highway Engineer—Appointments This Week.

The county court is receiving many applications for the positions that will be filled by the judges at this term. The appointments will probably not be made before the last day of court, which will probably be Friday.

There are three applicants for the position of county physician and health officer. Dr. F. M. Ryan, the present incumbent, is a candidate for re-appointment, and Dr. F. C. Wallis and Dr. Karl Malotte are also seeking that position.

There are five applicants for janitor at the court house. They are Ed Bailey, the present janitor, Will A. Lock, G. W. Irwin, H. C. Humphrey and Mark Dalrymple.

Joseph E. Reese, county highway engineer, is seeking re-appointment. John Clary, a former highway engineer, and who has been for the past several months engineer for the township board in Lincoln township, has also filed his application for that position.

W. L. Job is an applicant for re-appointment as superintendent of the county farm, and as yet no one else has applied for that position.

GEORGE ANDREWS DIES

Pneumonia Caused From Exposure After Fall Fatal to Hopkins Resident—Funeral Tomorrow.

George Andrews, who fell on the ice in his yard a week ago last Sunday, died at his home last night at 7 o'clock. Pneumonia was the cause of his death. He was not found after he had fallen for an hour, and pneumonia developed from exposure.

Mr. Andrews was about 60 years old. He had been married twice and is survived by his wife and seven children, who are Leonard, Frank, J. J., Ed, and Mrs. William Friend, and stepdaughter, Grace Hall of Hopkins, Al of Braddyville, and S. E. Andrews of Texas, who was here when his father died.

The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at the Methodist church in Hopkins. The Rev. Mr. McNamee will conduct the services.

POLITICAL NOTES.

(By Democratic Press Bureau.)

The Young Men's Democratic association will hold its next rally at Mexico, March 3. This organization of fighting young Democrats is doing much good work and should be encouraged in every way possible. Make up your mind now to attend this rally and help swell the Democratic tidal wave that is to engulf the stand-pat forces of plutocracy this fall. When the young men go to the front, victory perches upon the standards of Democracy.

The income tax, the most just of all taxes, has been upheld in every particular by the United States supreme court. This is another constructive measure of Democracy.

A load of fat lambs sold for $11 per cwt. on the market last week—a new record high price for mutton. Yes, Bildad, this is the same sheep the calamity howlers of the Republican party said you couldn't give away if Wilson was elected president. Just how any stand-patter can look a sheep in the face is too nervy a question for us to answer.

"America is not afraid of anybody. I know I reflect your feeling and the feeling of all our citizens when I say the only thing I am afraid of is not being ready to perform my duty. I am afraid of the danger of shame. I am afraid of the danger of inadequacy. I am afraid of the danger of not being able to express the correct character of this country with the tremendous might and effectiveness whenever we are called upon to act in the field of the world's affairs."

This center shot was fired by the president at Kansas City last week. And it rang the bell, too.

A coterie known as the Constitution club makes a cruise almost every summer with Commodore Perry of the Chicago Yacht club.

A season or two ago, so the story goes, the yacht was leaving a pier at a Lake Michigan summer colony, where the party had been handsomely entertained, and it was decided to fire a salute.

BLEW TWO PLANKS OUT.

Campbell Cummings, one of the party, immediately announced he probably was the best artillerist present and loaded the small brass signal gun the yacht carried. Before firing the piece, however, he forgot to elevate the muzzle, with the result the heavy charge blew two planks out of the deck and narrowly missed exploding the gasoline tanks of the auxiliary engine.

Commodore Perry, after inspecting the damage, approached Cummings and shook hands with him warmly.

"Campbell," he said, "allow me to congratulate you. You had all of Lake Michigan to shoot at, and that's the biggest mark I ever saw any one miss. But you did it."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Enlarging Her Part.

George M. Cohan, the widely known comedian, engaged a young woman for one of his productions whose ambition excelled her abilities. One morning she went to Mr. Cohan.

"I have only one line in the first act, Mr. Cohan," said she, "and but one in the second. Couldn't you give me a line for the third act also?"

Mr. Cohan thought for a moment of all the trouble the girl had caused him and of the exalted opinion she had of her poor acting.

"Well, yes," replied Mr. Cohan. "During the banquet scene in the third act you may enter and say, 'Here is a ham.'"

"Oh!" she exclaimed. "And do I bring a ham on the stage with me?"

"No," answered Mr. Cohan; "it is not a speech; it is a confession, my dear."—Kansas City Star.

Depew's Great Speech.

"When I was a very young man," Senator Depew once related, "I went out to make a political speech with some older men one night. They wanted something red hot, and I handed it out.

"I just turned myself to skin the opposition, and, on the whole, the audience seemed to like it. The more they cheered the more I warmed to it. I was immensely pleased with my success. But after I got home I was worried. I had roasted the other side awfully. I lay awake wondering if it wouldn't react and injure our side more than the opposition.

"Then I bethought of some personal allusions I had made that might easily be construed as libelous. I got a good deal excited and slept very little. In the morning I hurried down to see whether the papers had roasted me. The meeting was reported all over the front page. I plunged into it, shivering in nervousness. But I needn't have worried. What it said about my speech was in the last two lines:

"'A young man named Depew also spoke.'"

Nonroyal Headgear.

One of the attaches of the American embassy at London once told a story wherein Michael Joseph Barry, the poet, who was appointed a police magistrate in Dublin, was the principal figure. There was brought before him an Irish American charged with suspicious conduct. The officer making the arrest stated, among other things, that the culprit was wearing a "Republican hat."

"Does your honor know what that means?" was the inquiry put to the court by the accused's lawyer.

"It may be," suggested Barry, "that it means a hat without a crown."

She Loved His Tomb.

An immensely wealthy widow who gave yearly hundreds of thousands to charity decided personally to inspect some individual cases of deserving poverty herself. One of her agents brought before her a poorly clad woman, saying:

"Here is a poor old woman, a very decent sort of person. Her husband used to go about with a dancing bear. This creature, though usually very tame and gentle, one day threw itself on its master and ate him up."

"Alas, my good sir," the old woman broke in, "since that moment the poor beast and myself have been without a home!"

"What! The beast!" asked the wealthy woman. "Is it the same that devoured your husband?"

"Alas, my good lady, it is all that is left to me of the dear lamented one."—New York Herald.

STANDARD DRESS FOR ALL WOMEN

NEW IDEAS ADVOCATED BY UNIVERSITY DESIGNER.

CHANGING STYLES FORCE COMPETITION

New Idea is for a Two-Piece Garment Suspended by Undervest.

That the elimination of competition, the reduction of expense and the promotion of hygienic conditions in women's clothing depends upon the adoption of a standardized dress for women is the idea followed by the department of home economics of the University of Missouri at Columbia in devising a standardized garment. The new dress is intended for all women on all occasions, variations coming only in fabric and color.

The present style of women's dress, on a competitive basis, produces an enormous annual waste, both by frequent changes and added material, says Miss Ethel Ronzone, who designed the standardized dress. Women spend much time not only in selecting garments but in making over those that are no longer appropriate on account of changes in popular style. Dress is woman's stock in trade, used to show pecuniary standing and sex attraction under present conditions, Miss Ronzone says.

Hygienic conditions are considered as well as economy in the dress designed by the instructor at M. U. In design, it is a two-piece garment, with the skirt suspended by an undervest to prevent compression at the waist. The skirt is of four pieces, about two and a half to three yards around the bottom and reaching within four and a half to six inches of the floor. The waist is a modified form of the Russian blouse, hanging straight with a very loose belt or with the fullness gathered in a belt and the lower part cut in the form of a peplum. It is simple and very easy to make, and one can be cut by any woman with a fair knowledge of sewing, Miss Ronzone says.

The standardized dress is not radically unlike the prevailing styles in appearance. Almost every girl in the sewing and clothing classes has made one or more of the standardized dresses and many of the girls and all of the instructors wear them. It is certain that the women of the home economics department cannot be readily recognized by their clothes.

To make the standardized dress for women or the dress uniform in style, an ordinary commercial pattern may be used as a basis. Select a plain gore skirt pattern opening in the front. This pattern should be from two and one-half to three yards around the bottom.

The skirt is simply constructed with a plait down the front and one bias seam in the back that should be stayed by the use of a piece of tape, to keep it from stretching. The top of the skirt may be made into a band with buttonholes to fasten it to an underwaist, or it may be finished at the top with a piece of belting and loops made of tape added to take the place of buttonholes. If preferred, the skirt may be made to fasten onto an underwaist made of thin material. In making wash dresses it is convenient to open the skirt all the way down the front.

The waist may be made from a plain fitting shirt-waist patterns. The back and front are lengthened the desired amount, from ten to fourteen inches below the waist line. The under arm in the back is dropped straight down from the arm's eye, while in front it is sloped out about two inches at the bottom. Care should be taken to check up the bottom width of the jacket with the hip measure taken that far down. In making the jacket, simply hem it up the front and around the bottom. Put a pocket on either side for convenience. The collars and cuffs may be either made to fasten on with snaps. For convenience in removing, the belt must not be made so tight that it gives a drawn in appearance to the waist. The belt is held in place by keepers on either side of the under seam and may be raised or lowered to suit the figure.

The shirt-waist sleeve may be used with or without a cuff. For warm weather the sleeves may be shortened, but never above the elbow. In making the other type of waist, which is suitable for older figures, the same waist pattern may be used and the top of the skirt will serve for the peplum. This will have to be widened one inch on either gore to allow a little fullness. Here the lower part of the waist and the peplum are fixed into a gore belt. A yoke and fullness in the form of gathers or plaits may be added to either waist.

This style of dress is especially good as it is comfortable when worn without a corset. This means that when it is adopted we will be doing away with one of the most unhygienic factors in women's dress. The materials most successfully used in this costume are those that are opaque in character. The transparent materials are not successful, neither are they modest nor durable so they should go, along with other waste production such as trimmings and other ornaments.

Instant Relief! Pape's Diapepsin" Ends Your Stomach Trouble Forever.

Wonder what upset your stomach—which portion of the food did the damage—do you! Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps; head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take a little Pape's Diapepsin and in five minutes you wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless relief is Pape's Diapepsin, which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful—it digests food and sets things straight, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing. Please, for your sake, don't go on and on with a weak, disordered stomach; it's so unnecessary.

CZAR OF RUSSIA IS AN ACTIVE RULER

Rises Early and Puts In Twelve Hours of Work.

MEALTIME IS MADE MERRY.

All Governmental Affairs Are Tabooed When Royal Family Is Eating, and Time Is Passed In a Jovial Manner. Always Prays Before Retiring After Strenuous Day.

Petrograd.—The czar of Russia, to whom few Americans have had the opportunity of speaking save diplomatists, is one of the busiest rulers in Europe.

He rises at 7 o'clock after about seven hours of sleep and then puts in ten or twelve hours of work, and no fewer than four hours of these are spent alone. About six hours are given to meals and relaxation with the family. No governmental affairs are allowed to be discussed during mealtime, and the czar, czarina and the children indulge in merry talk.

Before 9 the czar has finished his modest breakfast and begun his daily work. He reads the newspapers, telegrams and other information presented to him and makes a note of all interesting matter. The time from 10 to 11 o'clock is assigned to walking, but nearly always from 10 to half past 10 o'clock he receives the reports of the officials of his household or gives special audiences to dignitaries or men who interest him, and only during the time until 11 o'clock does he walk alone or with his son, accompanied by two Scotch hounds. At 11 o'clock he returns to the palace and tests the food of his infantry regiment or of his bodyguard. A sample of the soldiers' food in a locked stewpan is brought to him by the chief noncommissioned officer of the regiment. After the test of the food the reports of the ministers begin, lasting until luncheon.

CZAR NICHOLAS.

The luncheon is informal. There he meets his family for the first time in the day. Sometimes the officers of the suit on duty that day are invited. After luncheon the emperor receives officials and deputies, and from 4 to 5 o'clock he walks, drives, rides on a bicycle or canoes and goes boating with his son or with his daughters and the empress. From 6 to 8 o'clock he works again in his study. From 8 to half past 9 he dines with his family, and from that time to 12 or half past he works again. He never rests during the day, yet keeps cheerful and unwearied. Sometimes, when he finishes his task earlier than usual, he reads to the empress at her evening tea. Before going to bed he prays.

On the eve of holy days the czar goes to the evening church services at half past 7 o'clock, and on holy days he goes to mass at 11. The rest of the time on holy days he works as on week days.

Possessing an excellent memory and a clear method of thinking, the czar writes in a clear hand, quickly and without erasures. His thoughts are expressed simply and briefly; he does not like long phrases and foreign words.

The czar receives thousands of persons during the course of a year. His speeches to deputations are always short, simple and hearty. "I never prepare my speeches in advance," said he, "but after a prayer to God I speak as it comes."

At the greater part of receptions the visitors stand, but venerable persons are invited to his study to sit down. After audiences in Tsarkoe Selo and Peterhof the visitors are treated to luncheon. The ministers have special days for their reports, the duration of each being fixed in advance. The audiences of private persons with the emperor ordinarily last from three to four minutes.

The private charity of the emperor is extensive. He gives not only by hundreds, but by thousands of rubles.

The difficult work of the government the czar does alone—he has no private secretaries. He has some help from the officials of his household and the officers of his suit.

Four Advantages of BURLINGTON Newfashioned Hosiery

It is absolutely without seams.

It is fashioned to fit perfectly, and retains its correct shape.

It has double-thick toe and sole, with high-spliced heel.

It wears better, looks better, fits better, is more comfortable, and represents higher value than is to be found in any other hosiery.

"THE CLUE," AT EMPIRE TONIGHT.

A Mystery Story of the Most Fascinating and Absorbing Nature.

More than any other photodrama yet staged by the Lasky Feature Play Co., "The Clue," in which Blanche Sweet makes her fourth appearance under this management, may be described as a drama of intrigue. It is to be shown at the Empire theater tonight.

Two Russians, Count Boris and his brother, Alexis, have stolen plans of the Japanese coast defenses which they are planning to take to London and sell there to a representative of the German government. As they pass through America they seek to acquire wealth by attempting to marry rich American girls. The brother of the girl to whom Alexis is paying marked attentions has as his valet a Japenese, who is really a secret agent of his government, and who, learning of the existence of the map, seeks to recover it. This causes him to murder Alexis. The complications of this event almost work a hopeless wrong for the American family before the identity of the real murderer is finally discovered by an expert detective.

"The Clue" is one of those fascinating dramas which must be followed with the most absolute attention from the very first moment in order to lose nothing of the story. The sharpest minds will be puzzled to unravel the mystery until the solution is finally presented on the screen.

MOTHER! YOUR CHILD IS CROSS FEVERISH, FROM CONSTIPATION

If Tongue Is Coated, Breath Bad, Stomach Sour, Clean Liver and Bowels.

Give "California Syrup of Figs" at once—a teaspoonful today often saves a sick child tomorrow.

If your little one is out-of-sorts, half-sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—look, Mother! see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour breath bad or has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again

Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless "fruit laxative," because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs;" then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." 10-1-15.

ROELOFSON RITES TODAY.

SEES BIG CHANCE FOR AMERICANS

T. N. Vail Says We Will Have to Develop Whole World.

WE MUST SERVE MANKIND.

President of American Telephone and Telegraph Company Declares America Should Grasp Opportunity Offered Us—Asserts England and France Will Not Be Able to Compete.

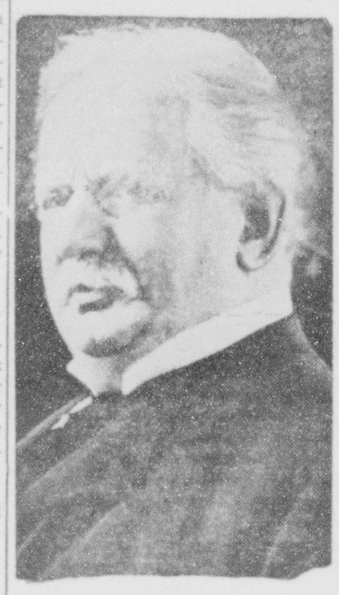
New York.—Theodore N. Vail, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company and one who has analyzed the American people and who thoroughly understands them, recently said when asked what he would do if he were a young man again:

"That is a big question. There are so many opportunities big and small open to every one." Continuing, Mr. Vail said:

"The United States today is in the same position in relation to the rest of the world as the thirteen original states were in regard to what is now the United States. Just as the original thirteen states had at their very doors the whole continent from the Alleghenies to the Pacific to develop and conquer, so today there is the whole world waiting to be developed by American capital and American brains and



THEODORE N. VAIL.

American energy. There is the whole world to conquer, the whole of mankind to serve. That is the opportunity of the United States.

"Just at present and for some years to come England and France, the great capitalist nations that up to now have developed the earth and given civilization to the raw and naked lands, will be shut off from competing with us. We can, we will, have the field to ourselves and the whole world to develop.

"The mere statement of the fact that this country stands today in relation to the world just where the thirteen states stood in relation to this country sixty or seventy years ago must show any man who knows this country how great our opportunity is.

"What is going on now in the United States is the natural community growth, and the great Mississippi valley and the west are creating and keeping their own wealth and are rapidly getting to the point where the thirteen original states were when they had to send their sons beyond their own borders to develop the great country which is now the United States.

"This might have gone on for some few more years, but the great war in Europe has brought to our doors an opportunity that this nation must seize. Alone of all the great powers the United States is in a position to carry on the great work of civilization on earth. It is our duty to do the great things that are waiting to be done, our duty to develop other countries, our duty to be of service to mankind. And it is not only our duty; it is also to our profit.

"There will be whole countries in Europe to be rebuilt, for property of every description is being destroyed on a scale never dreamed of before. That is their work and will occupy them for some time, but lying right at our door there are Mexico and Central and South America and all those rich and fertile countries that are crying for development that must come and now can only come through the United States.

"After all, that will only be the United States doing for the world what the thirteen states did for this country of ours. Within the lifetime of men who are still active just think what tremendous changes have been wrought!"

Giant of Drop Hammers.

Chambersburg, Pa.—The Chambersburg Engineering company has eclipsed its own world's record in making the largest steam drop hammer in existence or ever made. When all parts are assembled this latest record breaker tips the beam at 400,000 pounds, or 200 tons. It towers twenty-six feet six inches in height, or twenty feet two inches above the floor. It will be shipped to a big eastern concern for the manufacturing of drop forging cranks for engines of abnormal size. It will take three special freight cars to haul the eight pieces crated.

LOSING A BASS DRUM.

A Feat That Can Be Performed In More Than One Way.

"Now, don't you leave that bass drum on the train when we get to the terminal," said the conductor sharply as he punched the ticket of a stout colored man who, with his drum, was squeezed into the seat at the forward end of the smoking car of a city bound local.

"No, indeed, boss, I sho' won't do dat," responded the owner of the drum earnestly.

"Do many people leave bass drums on these trains?" asked a commuter as the conductor reached for his ticket.

"It's a regular thing for that fellow," replied the conductor testily. "He lives up near Rosemere, and once a month he comes down to the city to play in a band. He doesn't need the drum until evening, so to avoid carrying it around all day or paying for checking it in the parcel room, he leaves it on the train. Then along about 5 o'clock he calls for it at the lost article room in the station."

When the train reached the city the conductor left with the first of the passengers. As he approached the gate, however, he thought of something he had forgotten and turned quickly toward his train, which was now almost empty. As he did so his face reddened, his eyes snapped angrily and he started on a run for the steps of the smoking car, from which the owner of the bass drum, looking furtively from right to left, was descending.

"Where's that bass drum of yours?" demanded the conductor as he rushed up to him.

"Well, doggone me, ef I wasn't fo'gettin' dat drum again!" was the innocent response. "I sho'ly thank you, cap'n; I sho'ly do. Dey ain't no danger o' de train movin' back ef I goes into de kyar to git dat drum, is dey?" he added.

"I'll hold the train here for an hour if necessary," replied the conductor, "but get that drum out, and be quick about it!"

A few minutes later the commuter saw the owner of the drum sitting dejectedly on one of the benches in the station. As the drum again reposed beside him, it seemed likely that for once at least the owner would have to carry it with him through the day or else check it at the parcel room at the usual rate.

But on his way home that evening the commuter stopped at the lost article window to inquire for an umbrella that his wife had left in the station the day before. Much to his gratification, he found it.

As the attendant handed the umbrella out to him he heard a voice over his shoulder, a somewhat familiar voice, plaintively inquire:

"Say, cap'n, did yo'-all find a bass drum in dis heah station dis mawnin'?"

ried a large wreath. "Wot funeral? There ain't no funeral," the station master said. "Then it's a swindle, an imposition!" Toole said, with fiery indignation. "I have come miles to be at the funeral. Why do you announce that you are going to bury St. Edmunds?"

"The late O. Henry," said a magazine editor, "was always doing and saying the unexpected thing. That was the secret of his charm. Mr. Porter—to give him his right name—was once prevailed on by my wife to address a mothers' meeting in Brooklyn. His address, a brilliant one, began with the announcement:

"'Few women know the full value of a flatiron.'"

Mrs. Schuler was the leader for the afternoon and opened the study hour with a paper on "Beethoven's Contemporaries;" Mrs. Gilbert S. Cox read a paper on "His Remarkable Will Power;" "Erocia Symphony, Origin and Meaning," was given by Mrs. C. Q. Smith; "The Composition of Fidelio," by Mrs. Schuler; the paper prepared by Miss Alma Nash and read by Mrs. William Moll Case on "His Passion for Julia—Letters," was very good. "The Price of His Compositions at This Time" was given by Miss Ruth Reuillard. Miss Eleanor Smith's paper on "Defense of His Character" was read by her mother, Mrs. C. Q. Smith. "Beethoven's Association with Goethe," by Mrs. W. M. Westbrook, and the piano numbers, Erocia Symphony, Scherzo movement for four hands, by Mrs. A. F. Harvey and Mrs. Westbrook, and "Moonlight Sonata," by Miss Vesta Peterman, were especially good.

LAND WAS CHEAP THEN

When N F. Hopper, Who is Celebrating His 73rd Birthday, Came Here Land Sold for $5 an Acre.

N. F. Hopper, 309 West Second street, is celebrating his birthday today, being 73 years old. He came to Nodaway county from Henderson county, Illinois, in the fall of 1867 and located on a farm, where he lived until eight years ago, when he moved to Maryville. He came across the country in a prairie schooner. Maryville was only a trading post in those days.

Mr. Hopper located on a farm two and a half miles from where the town of Elmo is now located, but at that time such a town had never been thought of, his father having previously entered on this land, but had died two years previous to their coming here. At that time land was selling in Nodaway for $5 per acre, and after Mr. Hopper had lived here twelve years he bought a tract of land with some improvements on it for $12.50 per acre.

MORRIS FOR GOVERNOR.

Republicans Quoted as Saying This County is Strong for St. Joseph Editor.

"If all the district is like Nodaway county, the fourth district will go solidly for C. D. Morris for governor," Horace F. Leet of Maryville said yesterday to a representative of the St. Joseph Gazette in St. Joseph. Leet, together with Roland Hosmer and George Robb Ellison of Maryville, were in St. Joseph for the day.

Both Leet and Hosmer said Morris sentiment is strong in Maryville and throughout Nodaway county, and they were pleased, they said, that a Morris-for-Governor club has been organized in St. Joseph, opening the way for the campaign.

Kansas City Market Reports.

Kansas City Stock Yards, Feb. 7.—The cattle market advanced 15 to 25 cents last week because of light receipts. The supply today was 13,000 head, containing a large percent of beef cattle, and prices averaged steady on all kinds, cows a shade higher. Best steers here sold at $8.65, and some enormous steers, 1,800 pounds average, on the oxen order, sold at $8.10, bulk of the beef steers $7.50 to $8.25. Cows and heifers usually sell a little stronger on Monday because packing houses are anxious to start killing gangs, and they never have anything held over from the previous week. Choice heavy cows are worth up to $7, middle weight and flesh $5.50 to $6.25, best heifers $8.75, bulk of the heifers $6.25 to $7.50, bulls $5.25 to $6.50, veals $8 to $10.50.

Stocker and feeder offerings included a string of good to choice Colorado stockers weighing 750 pounds at $7.35, and some red Colorados, 900 pounds, $7.00, bulk of the stock steers $6.25, feeders $6.90 to $7.35, choice cattle in these classes up to $7.75. Iowa contributed a fair run today, stock steers included at $5.25 to $6.75. Chicago had a good run and reported weak prices, and the upward trend of the market has been temporarily halted by the fairly liberal supply all around today. Of course, future market will depend on volume of the receipts, the balance being in favor of sellers last week, but slightly the other way today. Hogs are apparently well entrenched just under $8, attempts to depress prices having only momentary effect. Receipts today were 11,000 head, and strong efforts were made to get them cheaper, but the close was fully steady, top $8.00, and most of the sales show only a slight decline, bulk $7.60. Receipts are decreasing at markets in the east, which results in more orders from that quarter to be filled here, increasing competition and strengthening prices. Pigs were selling extra high in Buffalo last week, account of shortage, hence a better market here. Complaint has been made that more than the usual percentage of medium to common lights were included in the last week. Prospects are favorable to sellers. Sheep and lambs sold 10 to 15 cents higher today, lambs going to $10.90, at which price a dozen or fifteen doubles sold, and feeding lambs brought $10. The top lamb stoday included shipments from each of the three Colorado districts, San Luis valley, Arkansas valley and Ft. Collins. Some yearlings sold at $9.80, and just fair ewes brought $7.45, prime ewes worth up to $7.75. Receipts are 9,000 here today, and light supplies are in sight for balance of the week. Scarcity will continue the leading market influence here.

TO HAVE BABY WEEK

UNCLE SAM PROCLAIMS ONE FOR THE FIRST WEEK IN MARCH.

MANY ARE MAKING PLANS

The City Federation of Women's Clubs Will Make Plans to Observe the Week in Maryville.

1916 is Baby Year.

The facts about American babies, the needs of American babies, and America's responsibility to its babies will this year be known as never before, because the first week in March will be Baby Week throughout the country.

More than four hundred communities, representing every state in the Union, are already laying their plans for Baby Week, according to the children's bureau of the United States department of labor, in order that during those seven days the needs of the babies may be so presented that all the parents in those communities will learn a little better how to care for their babies, and all the citizens will realize that they have a special obligation to safeguard the conditions surrounding babies. And it is confidently believed by those who are interested in this nation-wide Baby Week that the remainder of the year will be marked by a strengthening of all community activities for saving babies' lives and giving them a better chance to grow to a healthy maturity.

The Baby Week idea originated in Chicago not quite two years ago. Then New York had a Baby Week, and Pittsburgh and other cities. Such practical benefit has in each case resulted that the General Federation of Women's Clubs has undertaken to promote this nation-wide observance. State health officials and national organizations interested in public health and child welfare have taken up the plan and in various ways are giving it not only their sanction, but their active co-operation. The extension divisions of the state universities have promised special assistance in interesting and helping Baby Week in rural communities.

The federal children's bureau believes that Baby Week will give more parents a chance to learn the accepted principles of infant care, and will awaken every American to his responsibility for the deaths of the three hundred thousand babies who, according to the census estimates, die every year before they are 12 months old. Therefore the children's bureau has prepared a special bulletin of practical suggestions for Baby Week campaigns, adapted to the varying needs of communities of different types.

The city federation will make plans at a meeting to be held the latter part of the week for the observance of this week. Mrs. W. C. Van Cleve has been appointed as chairman of a committee to have charge of the arrangements.

JOPLIN WOMAN IS RESTORED BY REMEDY

Mrs. Hillman Took Treatment Two Years Ago—Has Been Well Ever Since.

Mrs. Ida Hillman of Joplin suffered from stomach ailments for twelve years. She followed the advice of several expert physicians and took a great deal of medicine. Two years ago she discovered Mayr's Wonderful Remedy—and she has been well since. Mrs. Hillman took but a few doses. She writes:

"I suffered with stomach trouble almost twelve years. I tried many doctors, but received no help until, while in Cleveland, Ohio, I read your notice in a paper and concluded to try Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. Since then I have felt like a new woman.

"I took only four bottles, but that was all that was needed to make me well. It has been almost two years and I have had no return of my trouble."

Mayr's Wonderful Remedy gives permanent results for stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. Eat as much and whatever you like. No more distress after eating, pressure of gas in the stomach and around the heart. Get one bottle of your druggist now and try it on an absolute guarantee—if not satisfactory money will be returned.

MADE A RECORD RUN.

And at That He Only Made His Teammates Furious.

Two small college teams played a football game in New York state. The winning team run up something like 108 points to the other's nothing, yet the most sensational run of the game was made by a member of the defeated team.

Toward the end of the game the ball was fumbled by one of the backs on the winning team. The ball rolled out toward an opposing player, who immediately swooped down upon it, gathered it under his arm and fled down the field like the wind.

At this a howl went up from the spectators that might be heard for miles. That shout gladdened the heart of the runner, for he realized that he was at last doing what he had always longed to do. He was about to make football history.

He had about a hundred yards to run, and he determined to reach that goal or die. One of his teammates ran toward him and shrieked. The runner put on an extra burst of speed. It was very encouraging to be applauded by players and spectators alike.

Presently he heard feet pounding heavily behind him. But he felt confident he could never be caught. The ground sped by under his feet, and the ten yard marks were passed as though they were but a few inches apart.

Only a few more yards, and then—fame!

But for all the runner's speed the pounding feet behind him drew steadily closer. The man carrying the ball heard them with dismay.

He leaped, he bounded, he fairly flew, he was there!

When both runners were but one yard from the goal posts the pursuer hurled himself forward, clutched the runner viciously about the knees, and both crashed heavily to the ground. Too late, however, for they had fallen over the goal line.

The runner picked himself up, aching in every limb, turned proudly toward the stands to receive the plaudits of the spectators—and looked into the snarling face of a furious teammate.

His own teammate had tackled him, for the runner had run in the wrong direction and had scored two points for the other side!—New York World.

Then It Got Cool.

At a dinner in Dublin there were two sisters present. One had just emerged from her widow's weeds, and the other was not long married, but her husband was in India. A young barrister who was present was chosen to take the young widow to dinner. Unfortunately he was under the impression that his partner was the lady whose husband was in India. The conversation commenced by the lady observing how hot it was. "Yes, it is very hot," replied the barrister, "but not so hot as where your husband is."

Circumstances Alter Cases.

Pat Cassidy purchased a new automobile, and while still inexperienced in the handling of it he drove down one of the crowded thoroughfares of the city. Coming to a crossing where traffic was held up he lost control of the car and ran squarely into a handsome limousine. The crowd which gathered found the situation amusing, and to add to Pat's discomfiture the crossing policeman, a big Irishman, commenced to berate him.

"Since when did you learn to drove a car?" demanded the officer. "What's yer name?"

"Cassidy," answered Pat.

"So?" said toe policeman interestedly. "And where are you from?"

"County Clare," said Pat.

"Say," said the cop, "how the divvil did that fellow back into you?"—Philadelphia Ledger.

Wanted to Be Truthful.

On one occasion Hall Caine met a fellow writer who had to confess that he had never read any of his books. It was during one of Mr. Caine's visits to the United States, when at a banquet given in his honor Thomas Nelson Page had been asked to introduce the guest of the evening. Just before the toasts began one of the diners passed his menu card round the table, with the request that Mr. Caine would sign his autograph upon it as a memento of the occasion.

"Good idea," said Nelson Page. "I'll send my card along also. I've got to introduce Hall Caine in a few minutes, and I want to be able to say that I have read something he has written."

A CULINARY COMEDY.

One of the Trials of a Husband Whose Wife Can't Cook.

They were a newly married couple. The wife, though a fair cook, did not know how to make the things his mother had prepared. And this vexed the husband, although he was disposed to be indulgent for the sake of harmony. But there was one point upon which he sorrowed not a little. His wife could not make edible corn bread, and corn bread was the food upon which he was reared.

One day a girlhood friend of the wife visited her and, after assisting in the preparation of luncheon, accepted an invitation to stay and eat it with the newlyweds. The husband arrived, and the guest and he took their places at the table while the wife went to the kitchen to bring some forgotten dish.

Before his plate was the husband's corn bread, but it was a miserable failure, a sickly yellow, flat and heavy. He became confidential.

"There is one of the trials of a husband whose wife can't cook," he said apologetically to the guest. "Just have a look at that corn bread. But you mustn't let the wife know what I said, for it would hurt her feelings."

When the wife entered the room a few moments later she noticed that a deep blush suffused the guest's face.

"Why, what is the matter, dear?" she asked.

"It's nothing," the guest replied hurriedly.

An hour later, after the husband had gone to the office, the chorus of two laughing women's voices merrily resounded through the household of the newlyweds.

But the wife has not yet told the husband that her guest made the corn bread on that day she stayed for luncheon; in fact, asked for the privilege because she considered herself an adept at making corn bread.—Kansas City Star.

Use Your Eyes.

This old Indian saying has much truth in it—"The learned have eyes; the ignorant have only two spots on their face."

Curious Old English Law.

It is interesting to recall in connection with railway accidents that only a few years back any instrument which by accident was the immediate cause of loss of human life became in English law "deodand"—that is, became forfeit to the crown, to be devoted to pious purposes. This law applies to locomotives, but in course of time coroners' juries, instead of claiming the forfeit, inflicted a fine. In the year 1838 a locomotive on the Liverpool and Manchester line which by exploding caused the death of its engineer and fireman was fined £20, while the following year another engine on the same line was fined £1,400.—London Mail.

A Waterfall In the Air.

On the road to the Pali from Honolulu, in Hawaii, is a waterfall that never reaches land. A thread of water leaps from the cliff a thousand feet in the air, but before it can gather force and carry itself to the bottom of the declivity the hungry northwest wind, hurtling through the pass, picks up the streamlet and wafts it away in mist.

A Spoiled Evening.

"Did she have a good time at the dance?"

"Not very. You see, nobody raised any fuss because her partner took more than five dances with her."—Detroit Free Press.

Discussing the Cynic.

"What a cynic he is!"

"Yes; when I hear him denouncing everybody and everything I can't help wondering just what sort of a place he expected the world to be anyhow."—Detroit Free Press.

Mrs. G. H. Colbert will leave tomorrow to spend a week with her son, Herschel, in Chicago.
